When using a raffle or drawing as a means of compensating participants in a study, one of the following options must be applied to comply with applicable Arizona statutes:

Option A - Recruitment materials do not reference any compensation. Consent materials, however, must address whether any compensation will be provided because this is a required element of consent. But, consent materials must also clearly state that participation in the research is not required in order to participate in the drawing. A method for participants to decline participation in the research but to enter into the drawing must be provided to all participants before any participants enter into the drawing.

Option B – If recruitment materials state there is compensation in the form of a raffle or drawing, those recruitment materials also must state:

1. Participation in the research study is not required;
2. Entries are limited to one entry per person; subjects under age 18 must have written consent from a parent or lawful guardian; and
3. Participation is void where prohibited by law
