THE AMERICAN INDIAN YOUTH LITERATURE AWARDS: INTEGRATING YOUTH LITERATURE IN THE CURRICULUM

NAOMI BISHOP, MLIS
AMERICAN INDIAN YOUTH LITERATURE AWARDS CHAIR 2018
AMERICAN INDIAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION PAST - PRESIDENT
NAU CLINE LIBRARY
OVERVIEW

- Arizona K-12 Standards
- About AILA and the AILA Youth Literature Awards
- Best books in American Indian Youth Literature
- Identifying authors and publishers that are American Indian
- Evaluation criteria for children's books with American Indian characters.
- What’s new in 2018?
- Issues in Publishing
- Resources and Ideas for empowering students to read
WHAT IS A GOOD BOOK?

- “A good book is a book that you enjoy.”
- “Reading is about experiencing joy”
- “We learn something about yourself and the world with every book that you read”
English Language Arts - Examples

- Describe characters, settings, and major events in a story, using key details.
- Compare and contrast the adventures and experiences of characters in stories.
- Compare and contrast the themes, settings, and plots of stories written by the same author about the same or similar characters (e.g., in books from a series)
- By the end of the year, proficiently and independently read and comprehend literature, including stories, dramas, and poetry, in a text complexity range determined by qualitative and quantitative measures appropriate to grade
Reading Standards for Literacy in History/Social Studies (6-8)

- Analyze the relationship between a primary and secondary source on the same topic.
- Identify aspects of a text that reveal an author’s point of view or purpose (e.g., loaded language, inclusion or avoidance of particular facts).
- Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including vocabulary specific to domains related to history/social studies.
- Cite specific textual evidence to support analysis of primary and secondary sources.
Every local educational agency (LEA) must teach a balanced curriculum adhering to State adopted standards and mandates for the content areas, using complementary materials that address the contributions of diverse cultures.

Schools must consciously build educational environments which value the rich heritage of all of Arizona’s communities and cultures, fostering appreciation for all, so that all students and their families are treated equitably and with respect.

While planning lessons across all subjects, integrate culturally inclusive instruction that takes into account the unique stories, accomplishments, and struggles of all of the people of Arizona.
NATIVE SUPER HERO'S

BOOK AWARD JURY MEMBERS AND DUTIES

The AILA president will appoint the Jury chair and members.

The AILA Jury will consist of a minimum of seven members.

Jurors must hold AILA membership and have experience working in libraries.

Two-thirds of the jury must be recognized members of their nation/tribe/community.

The jury should include geographic representation from on or near reservations, villages, and rural, suburban, and urban communities, whenever possible.

Jurors should have experience working with children and youth, and/or teaching reviewing, or writing for children or young adults.

Jurors should exhibit a working knowledge of criteria used to evaluate books about American Indians for young people.

Jurors will serve for a term of four years on 3 staggered terms.

Jurors may nominate titles in each of the three categories.

Jurors will make the final decision concerning books accepted for nomination and awards.

The Jury will reach its final decision by consensus.
HOW CAN TEACHERS CRITICALLY EVALUATE BOOKS WITH NATIVE CONTENT?

- Read AICL Blog https://americanindiansinchildrenslliterature.blogspot.com/
- Look for people with connections to the community (ask around)
- Ask author, publisher, illustrator about their connections to community
- Does the book have stereotypes or untruths?

“Even as the number of diverse books increases substantially, the number of books written by people of color still has not kept pace. Not much has changed since last year when Black, Latinx, and Native authors combined wrote just 6% of new children’s books published. This year the number is only 7%.

Like last year and many of the years before, the majority of books (diverse or not) are still written by white authors. We wrote about this phenomenon back in 2015, and the numbers haven’t changed much since then.”
ISSUES WITH PUBLISHING

- Illustrator is Native, but author is not
- Non-Native authors co-publishing with Native authors
- Why are we still giving preference to white authors telling diverse stories rather than authors of color/Native authors?
- Why are Black, Brown, and Native authors and illustrators still so underrepresented?
- What efforts (if any) are publishers making to diversify the creators they work with?
RESOURCES FOR EDUCATORS

- American Indians in Children's Literature Blog

- American Indian Library Association https://ailanet.org/

- Young Adult Library Services Association Book Finder contains books selected for teens from 12 to 18 years of age, the award-winning titles and the titles on YALSA's selected lists span a broad range of reading and maturity levels. http://booklists.yalsa.net/

- Oyate is a Native organization working to see that our lives and histories are portrayed with honesty and integrity, and that all people know that our stories belong to us. http://www.oyate.org/
IDEAS

- Chapter a day challenge with friends or family
- Zines create your own stories
- Research Report on a Native author or illustrator
Why It Matters?

- “There is not ONE way to be a Native person. There’s not ONE way to be a teenager. There is not ONE way to be anything. Be who you are and listen to the stories of your elders, you won’t always be able to hear them.” – Dawn E Quigley

- “I want Native teenagers to feel they are a part of this world. That they are valued and respected. I don’t think the representation is there yet.” – Cynthia Leitich Smith
