

Community-Campus Partnership Support

Southwest Health Equity
Research Collaborative

++++ FUNDING OPPORTUNITY ANNOUNCEMENT ++++

ROUND 8 – Winter 2021/22

DEVELOPING NEW PARTNERSHIPS between community practitioners and leaders and university investigators requires time to discuss common interests, potential collaborative work and in some cases, money to allow potential partners to meet face-to-face or even to travel to a conference addressing common interests as a way to inspire potential collaborative research projects in the future.

SHERC's Community Engagement Core (CEC) is pleased to announce the availability of Community-Campus Partnership Support (CCPS) funding for new community and NAU partners to explore mutual areas of health equity interest and potential ideas for collaborative research – up to $5,000 for an 8-month project period (January 1, 2022, to September 1, 2022).

APPLICATIONS ARE DUE: DECEMBER 13, 2021, AT 5:00 PM, MST

Eligibility & Requirements

- Community Partner: The community partner must work for a community- or tribal-based organization and have worked there for a minimum of 1 year.
- NAU Partner: All NAU faculty investigators (tenure and non-tenure track) and postdoctoral researchers can apply for CCPS funding.
- The partnership developed with CCPS, if productive, is expected to apply for SHERC and/or non-SHERC funding to continue work on mutual areas of interest. If the NAU investigator does not qualify for a SHERC Pilot Project grant, non-SHERC funding sources must be receptive to collaborative research.
- If funded, the community and NAU partners must agree to co-view the SHERC pre-recorded webinar: "Community-Based Participatory Research Principles and Voices," available on the SHERC website, download and listen to a SHERC podcast episode about health equity, and watch a SHERC video series about community-university research partnerships.

Level of Support

A maximum of $5,000 for 8 months will be awarded to the partnership and managed by SHERC administrative personnel in accordance with the terms and conditions of the National Institutes of Health (NIH). Within NIH parameters, the partners can determine how the funds will be distributed. Funds available are pending final budget approval by sponsor. Funds cannot be spent on research activities.

Application Process

- Partnerships should submit one document that describes the following for each partner:
  - Employer, current position and time with current employer
  - Background and skills
- Two-page concept paper describing areas of collaboration, components to include are:
  - Statement of problem and its relation to health equity
  - Proposed activities for partnership development (must be non-research)
    - Be mindful of current NAU COVID policies and travel restrictions
    - Include one paragraph describing COVID-19 safety practices partners will follow to prevent spread: <https://nau.edu/coronavirus/>
  - Expected outcome/deliverables
  - Timeline for deliverables
- Budget identifying how funds will be expended; indirect costs are not allowed
- Current CV, resume or bio-sketch for all community and NAU lead partners
- Letters of support from the NAU and community partner's supervisors indicating they will approve travel requests and other time investments proposed in the application
